Veteran honored

Sports Reporter A special retirement game for veteran Hans Niedermayer precedes the end of the North Cariboo Senior Soccer League regular season this weekend

Niedermayer, who came to Prince George in 1956 from his native Germany, will play with the Rheingold Kickers against a team comprised of various veteran players he has faced in his long Prince George playing career. The final match for Niedermayer begins Saturday at 1 p.m. at Rotary Stadium.

The 57-year-old self-described soccer nut is famous locally for his total dedication to the game, a passion bordering on fanatical. For years he's lived in the Rotary Stadium clubhouse as league caretaker.

He discovered Connaught field, then the headquarters of Prince George soccer, only four hours after he arrived and practised for two hours with several local players.

Porn in southern Bavaria near the Austrian border, Niedermayer grew up only 61 metres (200 feet) from his village's soccer field and he's never been far from the game since, playing from the age of Formerly a high-scoring forward, Niedermayer switched to defender, as increasing age reduced his speed. Also trouble by asthma, he sometimes played in goal when nobody else was available.

He started with the Legion team two weeks after he arrived and became manager of the Deutsch Flyers in 1963. Renamed the Rheingold Kickers, the team did well during the 1960s and won the league championship in 1971, both for the

Volleyball boys begin

by DAVE PAULSON Sports Reporter

A lot will be learned this weekend as the high school boys' volleyball season

The Prince George Secondary School Polars play host to their traditional season-opening tournament, the 11th annual Spruce City Invitational.

The Polars, the perennial north-central zone power, would like to settle a score with the Columneetza Cougars of Williams Lake, who won last year's zone AA (large school) title, denying PGSS of it for the first time in eight years.

Also competing are the Duchess Park Condors, the Kelly Road Runners, the Lakewood Lakers (Grade 10), the Prince George Volleyball Club, the South Peace Penguins of Dawson Creek, the Vanderhoof Vikings, the Correlieu Clansmen of Quesnel and defending champion D.P. Todd Trojans of Prince George. Play started at 3 p.m., with Duchess

Breakers pick Endean

A 14-year-old Prince George player is one of 91 youngsters picked by Western Hockey League teams for their 50-man negotiation lists.

Defenceman Craig Endean was drafted Tuesday by the Seattle Breakers, where former Prince George minor hockey players Renzo Berra, Mike Mesic, Alan Graves and Brian Graves have played.

Endean was invited to Breakers' evaluation camps the past two years but didn't go, because he didn't want to go to the U.S. He skated with the WHL's Oilers in his hometown of Kamloops this season, as well as with the WHL's Victoria Cougars.

Endean, third in scoring among bantams in the Cariboo Minor Hockey Association last season, is large for his age and still growing as he returns for another season with the Chieftain Autopar Bantam Kings.

Hankin goes back to home

VANCOUVER (CP) - Less than 24 hours after reject ing a transfer to Middlesborough, striker Ray Hankin of Vancouver Whitecaps has apparently changed his mind and will sign a contract with the English League Second Division club.

The deal will be worth about $200,000 to the North American Soccer League team.

Hankin, the Whitecaps leading scorer during the 1982 NASL season, met with assistant coach Peter Lorimer in Leeds, England, Wednesday and after a brief discussion reportedly agreed to accept his transfer to Middlesborough. Negotiations for Hankin's transfer started after Vancouver bowed out of the first round of the NASL playoffs to San Diego Sockers earlier this month. But the 26-year-old striker vetoed the move on Tuesday by exercising a no-trade clause in his contract.

Under terms of his three-year contract, Hankin would have entered the first of two option years with the 'Caps Whitecaps general manager Peter Bridgwater said

Wednesday that, barring further complications, Lorimer will supervise Hankin's transfer today by signing papers on behalf of the Whitecaps. Hankin came to Vancouver in February, 1980, from Leeds United, and played a total of 74 NASL games. He scored 31 goals and collected 17 assists for 79 points fourth on the team's all-time scoring list.

Arm wrestlers in Edmonton

There will be at least two Prince George competitors at the Candian arm wrestling championships this weekend in Edmonton.

Brian Skakun, B.C. champion in both the right hand 135 pounds to 150 pounds division and the 150 to 165 class, will be seeded second in Canada in the 135 to 150 category

Arnold Roberts, B.C.'s left hand under 175 champion, is the other city contestant. Randy Krause, who pulls in the heavyweight (more than 180 pounds) class, sprained the thumb on his right hand recently and might not compete. The championships are held at Commonwealth Sta-
