B.C. (CP) — The internal hemorrhage that killed David Tremblay was caused by two or three blows to the abdomen, a consulting pathologist testified Thursday at an inquest into the boy's death.

Dr. Margaret Norman's testimony supported the original autopsy report done by Dr. Robert Clarke for the B.C. Corner's Service in 1981. Clarke found - and reiterated on the stand Wednesday - that the boy's death was caused by "trauma" physical injury.

However, Clarke's autopsy did not identify the injuries to the boy's abdomen Norman claimed to have discovered when she reviewed Clarke's work more than a year later.

''The commonest cause of this type of bleeding, into the bleeding, abdomen."

Norman, a Children's Hospital pathologist hired by the coroner's service, said the abdominal bleeding was only one factor in her conclusion. "This is a child who has had multiple repeated injuries," she tesplace of the injuries is also typical of non-path-ological injuries."

Tremblay's wrist and and a small bone in his hand had both been broken in the months before he died.

"You are the only one who has come out and said this child has been a victim of non-accidental injury," Ray Chouinard, Michael Scott White's lawyer, told Norman during the inquest.

White and his wife, Liv Bandiera, David's mother, were charged with murder 10 months after David died April 16, 1981. Those charges were stayed by the Crown for lack of evidence last August. Clarke's testimony

Some family members were shot and beaten

(CP) — Autopsies have confirmed that some of the six people slain early Tuesday in a home in this Vancouver suburb were bludgeoned, apparently after they had been shot.

Coroner Diane Messier said Thursday post-mortem examinations were conducted on the six members of the Blackman family following Xrays which revealed the presence of metal fragments.

"The pathologist's re-ports indicate that each deceased suffered traumatic injuries from gunshot wounds," Messier said in a statement. "Other injuries from a blunt instrument were also identified.'

"No time of death of any of the deceased has yet been established nor Messier refused to say if all the victims were bludgeoned. She refused to answer any questions, saying the matter is before the courts.

She said time of death would not be known until "much later."

Killed in the pre-dawn slayings were Richard Blackman, 50, his wife Irene, 49, son Rick, 16, daughters Roberta Lynn Davies, 28, and Karen Dale Rhodes, 25, and son-in-law J.mn Davies,
