'DALLAS' DREAM — If the "Dallas" death-of-Bobby episode was all a dream, how does that explain why someone telephoned Abby on "Knots Landing" to tell her of Bobby's death? Val's son is named Bobby in memory of the Patrick Duffy character. Didn't anybody tell her it was just a dream? — B.D., Victoria, British Columbia

Good question, B.D. And one which the "Knots Landing" producers have thus far avoided. (You can't really blame them for not wanting to open that can of worms.) But you can address your inquiry to Roundelay/MF Prods., c/o Lorimar Television, 10202 W. Washington Blvd., Culver City, CA 90232.

'FATMAN' CONRAD — What can you tell me about actor William Conrad of "Jake and the Fatman"? When and where was he born, and where can I write to him? — C.G., Golden, British Columbia.

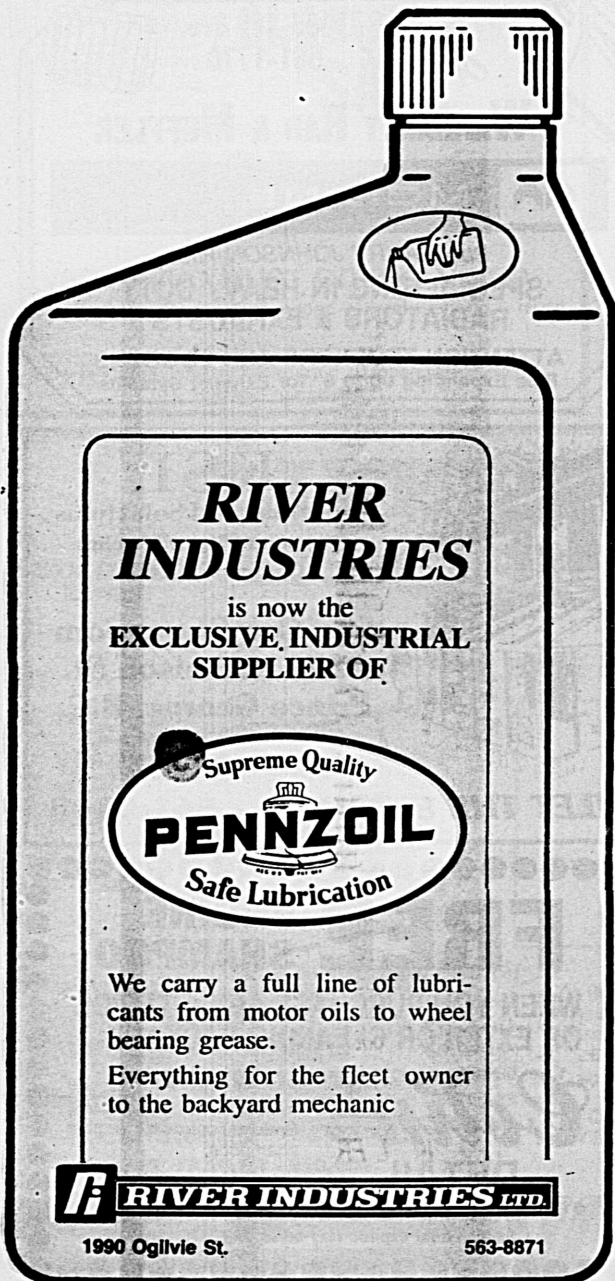

Conrad, who plays the role of J.L. "Fatman" McCabe on the CBS series, was born in Louisville, Ky., on Sept. 27, 1920. His distinctive voice has been heard on numerous series:

He narrated "The Fugitive," "The Wild, Wild World of Animals" and "The Bullwinkle Show." In 1971, viewers were able to put together the voice with a face, when Conrad filled the screen as "Cannon," his most successful series to date. You can reach Conrad c/o The Fred Silverman Co., 12400 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles, CA 90025.

WWF WHEREABOUTS — Where can I write to the president of the World Wrestling Federation? — R.J., Prince George, British Columbia

You can find him at the same address where you'd find all those colorful WWF personalities — World Wrestling Federation, 1055 Summer St., Stamford, CT 06905.

YEAR OF 'THE GODDESS' — What year was the movie "The Goddess," starring Lloyd Bridges and Kim Stanley, released? Is it on video yet? And how old is Bridges? — P.S., Wilmet, Prince Edward Island. "The Goddess," inspired by Marilyn Monroe, was released in 1958 and is available on video. Lloyd Bridges is 75 years old.
