Sitting West was Bob Richman. formerly of Cleveland and now one of the top players in Australia. Nevfull-blooded five-club preempt over South's one-spade opening bid. When the auction got back to him it was at six spades and that payable to "Newspaperbooks." became the final contract.

Now the mind of the expert took over. Richman was sure that, given South's confident slam bid, two rounds of clubs would "never" go through. It seemed the best chance to defeat six spades lay in scoring one club trick and a heart ruff. But to manage that East would have to have an entry. Since it was surely not a fast entry, what then?

Richman had seen this situation many times in newspaper columns and books. He would underlead his ace-king of clubs! To suggest the heart return, he carefully selected the nine of clubs as his opening lead.

Declarer, Martin Caley of Montreal, carefully played dummy's queen to the first trick and was only mildly surprised when it held the trick. He drew trumps in two rounds, ending in dummy, ran the jack of diamonds, crossed to the ace of diamonds and reentered dummy with a trump to take a club discard on the king of diamonds. Declarer claimed his slam, conceding only a heart trick. Easy.
