Despite the baseball lockout, spring training is going well for minor leaguers in various centres throughout the South.

Another nothing for

NEW YORK (AP) - Another day of nothing in baseball: no ne-gotiating, no talks scheduled, no settlement in sight.

Still nothing definite on opening day, either. But, with the lockout now at 28 days, it's a foregone conclusion the season will not start on time.

On Tuesday, commissioner Fay Vincent and the league presidents agreed to wait until Friday before deciding whether to officially postpone the April 2 openers.

"We felt basically we could wait a few more days before we had to make a definite announcement, hoping something could occur in a positive way," said American League president Bobby Brown. "We didn't want to make Brown. "We didn't want to make some sort of a big pronouncement on Tuesday for "both sides to get and start scrambling and change it. We just want to hold out."

At this point, though, a lot of people are wondering what for. Especially since the sides are going public with their sniping, instead of keeping it private.

Union chief Donald Fer, and management negotiator Chuck O'Connor spoke several times by telephone Tuesday, but Fehr said nothing of substance was dis-

"I can't say-wz made any progress," O'Connor said.

The sides have not bargained since last Wednesday and there are no plans for them to get together.

the matter resolved so the American people can hear that cry 'Play ball' again.

"Yes, I'm a ball fan and I want to go to the opening game someplace," Bush said during a Whi9 bhouse news conference. "Last year I went to the American zague. This year I would like to go to the National League if pos-

Instead, baseball seems headed for its third shortened season in 17 years. And opening day seems certain to be delayed for just the second time.

The first 86 games of the 1972 season were cancelled by a strike. Not all of them were made up and it wound up making a difference as the Detroit Tigers won the AL East with an 86-70 record, one-half game ahead of the Boston Red Sox's 85-70.

Brown said games would not be made up if more than two or three were cancelled from each club's 162-game schedule.

Management's six-owner player relations committee met by conference call and decided to allow minor league teams to play exhibition games in major league spring training ballparks.

Spring training communities had asked for this, and O'Connor said he thought some minor league teams would do so. He also cautioned that no one should mistake these for big league games, and said a portion of ticke receipts would be given to chari-

Tough decision helpful to Clan

By Grant Kerr BURNABY, B.C. (CP) - Facing a difficult decision in the spring of 1988, high school basketball star Michelle Hendry turned to a trusted friend.

On one hand, there were full scholarship offers from Wyoming, Idaho State and Idaho. Then there were Canadian schools like Calgary and Victoria.

The six-foot-two centre from Terrace, B.C., eventually called Allison McNeill, her provincial under-17 coach, for advice.

"Allison told me she was a little biased because she had just accepted a position at Simon Fraser University," Hendry said this week. "That was good enough for me.

"I wanted to play for her because she's so easy to get along with. We've grown together and developed a really good bond."

Thanks to Hendry, 19, and Mc-Neill, 30, the Clan has also grown into a championship contender.

On Tuesday, Hendry and McNeill headed to Jackson, Tenn. where the SFU Clan is ranked No. 6 heading into the women's tournament for the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics championship.

It's the first time the Clan have qualified for the women's NAIA

"Michelle is the impact player every coach wants to have," said McNeill. "We have a great player-coach repertoire.
"The one thing she did make me promise is that I'd stay here for four years to coach her. She didn't want to be changing coach-

Hendry has been nothing short of sensational at SFU, whose athletic program participates in the NAIA, made up of small U.S. colleges. SFU officials say the NAIA offers cheaper travel costs and better competition.

Hendry was named player of the year in the NAIA District One, the conference in which the Clan play, in both her freshman and sophomore seasons. She has averaged 23.8 points and 8.5 re-bounds a game this season as a sophomore.

McNeill, a diminutive five feet, said she picked the ideal time to arrive at SFU. The former Laurentian and Oregon point guard brought eight freshmen with her in the fall of 1988, including Hendry.

"The most important part of this job is recruiting," said Mc-Neill, who played high school ball at Salmon Arm, B.C., with former national team player Bev Smith. "There were only four returning players when I got the job, so there was room for all the fresh-

McNeill's coaching office is decorated with basketball memorabilia, including pictures of husband Mike (a former SFU men's coach) and onetime SFU student Terry Fox, whose courageous marathon of hope raised millions of dollars for cancer research.

She believes in mottoes like "every success story starts with a kid who hated to lose" and plaspoints a game, McNeill said any success at the nationals will be generated by the swarming defence led by co-captains Andrea Schnider and Hendry. SFU has held opponents to 59 points a

The last practice before hitting the road was a demanding combination of fast-break tactics and defending two-on-one situations. "We're a really tight team and do everything together," said Hendry, a kinesiology student. "It really helps when 12 people to get along so well.

"You're with these people for four years of your life. It's a huge commitment to make, but a lot of Hendry hopes to play for the Canadian national women's team this summer at the Goodwill Games in Seattle, with her longrange goal the 1992 Olympics in Barcelona.

SFU, 28-6 for the season, plays Minnesota-Duluth in the first round of the championships Friday. Top-ranked St. Ambrose (Io-wa) is unbeaten at 33-0.

B.C. rink leads field

WHITEHORSE (CP) -Jerry Martin recovered from a 5-1 deficit to defeat Ed Derbowka of Whitehorse 8-6, giving British Columbia sole possession of first place in the Canadian senior men's curling championships on Tuesday.

Martin's record in the round robin was 6-1 after the win, while Derbowka's Territories team dropped into a tie for second place with Ken May of Burstall, Sask. Both have 5-2 records.

Joan Ingram of Winnipeg held off Jill Greenwood of Toronto with a single point on the 10th end for a 7-6 win in the senior women's event. It put Manitoba and Ontario, both at 4-2, into a five way tie for first place after the 10th round.

The other co-leaders were Evelyn Hosker of Fort St. John, B.C., who defeated Madeline Boyd of the Territories 8-3; Eleanor Stewart of Saint John, N.B., who lost to Dorothy Crowe of St. Lambert, Que (3-3); and Amy Nakamura od Taber, Alta., who had a bye in the round.

Martin's win over Derbowka came after the leading men's team had lost its first game of the championship earlier in the day to Damien Ryan of St. John's, Nfld. The win put Newfoundland's champion back in the thick of the race, although the rink lost 7-5 to Bud Hosker of Fort St. John, B.C. Hosker, who is representing Alberta, lost 7-5 in Round 10.

Rose has humor about no basbeall

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - Former Cincinnati Reds manager Pete Rose is facing his first season out of baseball since 1963 with a sense of humor.

"I'm ready for it, the only difference is I think I'll have to pay to go to the games now," Rose said Tuesday during a news conference prior to a speech to about 1,200 supporters of Crossroads Rehabilitation Centre in Indianapolis.

"So I'll pay for my tickets, sit behind homeplate and the first guy that strikes out I'm going to ates who told baseball's investigators of his gambling habits.

"To see guys turn on me because of hearsay and because of something that wasn't true just really disappointed me. Guys that I thought were my so-called friends, and I won't forget that because it wasn't right.

"There's a little bitterness in the way I was handled by some people, which really wasn't fair. That's still on the tip of my mem-ory, so that's why I'm not really interested in going back and co-when he speaks of his bitterness like I did all those years as a toward former friends and associplayer and all the years as a manplayer and all the years as a man-

Baseball's career hit leader was banned for life from the sport last Aug. 24 for illegal gambling, but will be eligible to apply for reinstatement after one year.

He said he has made no decision on applying.

"I don't understand why August would be a good time to apply for reinstatement because what's available for an ex-baseball player in August?" Rose said. "The only job that would be available would be a team that's You're not going to be able to take over a first-place team. A federal grand jury in Cincinnati is investigating Rose's taxes. He now lives in Plant City, Fla., home of the Reds' spring traiuiog camp, and spends his days playing golf and working on his tan. He also plans to start a radio show in Cincinnati later this month.

"Golf's a perfect game for a guy that likes sunshine and has got a lot of time; I play golf every day," said Rose.

Rose said he is in no hurry to apply for reinstatement, but is
