QUEEN MARGARET'S SCHOOL, founded in 1921, offers a complete academic curriculum based on the requirements of the Ministry of Education, enhanced by several special programmes.

The CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC makes lessons available at all grade levels in piano, harp, strings, woodwinds and brasses as well as contemporary electronic keyboard. The full range of theory, harmony, counterpoint, and music history courses are offered to the A.R.T.C. level.

The EQUESTRIAN CENTRE provides education for both the beginner and the experienced rider. An academic course in Horsemastership gives credit towards graduation for senior students. The school also has its own branch of the Canadian Pony Club.

Natives to get grants

The B.C. Government is kicking in $300,000 to Natives in the province to provide training, education, public information or community and program development on justice issues.

The one-year grant was announced this week by Native Affairs Minister Jack Weisgerber, former Attorney General Bud Smith and Solicitor General Russ Fraser.

"This new program will give Natives the chance to develop appropriate programs which they feel will help foster a close partnership between themselves and those working in the justice system," explained Smith.
