Silent Auction Fund Raiser September 27 - November 12, 1993

The Prince George Art Gallery's fall fund-raising event is a silent auction entitled: Art In Autumn. Twenty-two art works, donated by local and regional Artists, are on display from September 27 until November 12 at local businesses. These businesses are showing their support for the Art Gallery by participating in the event. A closing reception will be held at the Prince George Art Gallery November 12th at 7:30 p.m. For participating Artists, businesses and winning bidders. Accompanying the pieces are bid sheets where you may enter bid amounts. Check these sheets regularly so that you don't miss out on your favorite piece.

An Open Letter To All Candidates

The church can not support one potential party, it is called to give public witness to God's love for all people and to work to establish justice and peace on earth. Part of this mission involves calling governments and political leaders to account and advocate justice. Presently there would be nothing more harmful to our country than to ignore the issues.

Consider the following questions:

- Would you be willing to work for the elimination of poverty?
- How would you attempt to solve some of the problems of part-time employment and poorly paid jobs as they effect women, youth, and visible minorities creating financial hardship and stress?
- Free Trade is a concern for many people. How would you address the following imbalances: human rights, environment, employment standards and fair wages?
- What ethical principles should guide priority setting on government spending without adding to the stress of the poor?

These questions are posed by the Prince George Committee, 10 Days For World Development Education, to assist candidates and voters in reflecting on their faith values when they vote on October 25th.

"The worst enemy of democracy is apathy".
