

Style. Power. Attitude. Value.

THE NEW 2006 FORD FUSION

It's stronger, quieter, more nimble and more solid than your average mid-size sedan. It's the 2006 Ford Fusion, the embodiment of modern, sophisticated design. Under the skin, the story grows stonger. The Fusion offers a 160-hp I4 engine and 5-speed manual transmission, a partnership with equal parts excitement and efficiency. Or an available V6 with an adrenalin-boosting 221 hp and a class-exclusive 6-speed automatic transmission. Also standard: a responsive ride (advanced chassis design), road-gripping handling (4-wheel independent suspension), razor-sharp steering (power rack-and-pinion) and jealous stares (assorted onlookers).

Scope out the muscular, three-bar chrome grille, multi-elemental quad-beam headlamps, chrome-tipped dual exhaust pipes and sleek sheet metal. In terms of prure automotive design, the Fusion strikes right to the core of the true enthusiast, creating an involuntary response that defies convention.
