

Decoration Renovation

Mirrors are a reflection of your personality

Forget about the seven years of bad luck if you break one; instead, think about all the good luck that will come from tastefully decorating your home with mirrors.

Essential in bathrooms and bedrooms, mirrors can also work as wonderful decorative elements in any other room of your home. Thankfully, mirrors are not as conventional as they once were. Nowadays, they come in all shapes and sizes, are decorated with flowers or leaves, are engraved or come framed in various materials such as cast iron, wood and even stone. What's more, you can use tinted glass mirrors for creating a special ambience.

Small rooms will take on an entirely different aspect if one wall is completely covered in mirrors. This decorating trick will create the illusion that the room is twice as big - a great way to renovate without suffering from exorbitant cost! Add a few leafy plants and suddenly a corner looks like a greenhouse!

Mirrored accessories are also wonderful touches. Flowerpots, candlesticks, shelves, and photo frames - such items combine utility and beauty. Sometimes you have to look around a bit in stores to find them, but if you're not superstitious, you could always break an old mirror and create your own masterpieces.

Essential in bathrooms and bedrooms, mirrors can also be used as decorative elements throughout your home.
