

A REVIEW OF POST NORTH 6 FOR NOTHING

by : Shane Darroch

During his reading, Matt Partyka claimed that “after six years, Post North is facing a midlife crisis.” However, based on a turnout of about 100 people and the level of audience participation, Post North seems to be gaining in popularity. The drinks flowed liberally, the cheers echoed loudly, and the poetry was delightfully risky. Consequently, Post North once again demonstrated that it is the premier poetry event in Prince George.
