

example of what a great student union executive member should be.

First and foremost, each candidate should feel proud for their courage to run in an election. Running to represent a large portion of the student body is terrifying, but necessary, and every single candidate did great. The extensive amount of hard-work willingly provided and expressed by each candidate was only rivaled by their on-the-fly genius in regards to how they campaigned

I cannot stress enough how extremely close this campaign race was in terms of the friendly competition and voting between the candidates. Believe it or not, democracy can be exciting. Don't believe me? One only has to examine the results of the International Students' Representative position to know democracy is fast-paced and that one vote matters. If you do not believe that one vote matters, you are full of "it" and should feel terrible about making such a claim.

The CNC Electoral Committee will be hosting a by-election for the International Students' Representative position on March 19th in the Gathering Place outside of the CNCSU Offices. It is at this location that you, the students, will have a chance to elect either Muhammad Rujman Hussain or Aditi Kaushik for the International Students' Representative position that is currently being contested.

Every vote matters.
