

ROCKING-CHAIR RIDE

by :Paul Strickland

Editor's Note: Here is a short story from one of Prince George's talented writers, Paul Strickland. On a weekly basis, Paul wades through the murky depths which constitute Canadian law and social norms in regards to the blatant disregard for ageism and work-related issues. If you ever see Paul in the streets, be sure to tell him to "give'em hell."