

FRUSTRATION

Aldon, education reporter at the North Fibre News, had begun to detect that public officials in Manitoba were becoming even less responsive than before. Many would return calls five minutes before absolute deadline. Others would just refer to a policy statement or press release and refused to comment further.