

Hypothesize what will be behind the door but until it is opened the unknown remains a mystery. My art is an expression of our society and global community. My arsenal is vast as I use mixed media to capture the essence of politeness or rudeness and experience the triviality of life. I am willing to push, pull, rip, tear, sew or hem from creation to destruction, we live to die and I hope to capture everything in between with beautiful splendor and ugly truths. My work does not take from an individual philosophy but borrows from all. My interventions rely on my interpretations of basic human nature. No matter colour or creed, my works speech to all.
