

Looking Forward: Our Mission

by Damon Robinson

I have a lot of ideas for the Confluence, and I look forward to putting them all in place during my tenure as the new Editor In Chief of the magazine. The one thing that I want to make clear, is that as long as I am the Editor-In-Chief, we will have a high standard of free speech and honesty. I want the magazine to be your megaphone to give everyone a voice. During my tenure I look to hold a high journalistic integrity. With all of these plans of journalism, it makes sense to announce my plans for how the magazine will be ran and what content we will be published.

While we will still publish everything that we have published prior, (Poetry, Short-Stories, Art, etc.) we will shift ourselves more towards journalism and news coverage. This is the reason for why we have hired on Madison Buckner as our upcoming News Editor. With someone dedicated fully to the journalism side of things, our readers can look forward to hearing more about what is going on around them rather than reading just poetry and short stories. (Not that there is anything wrong with that!) With this in mind, we will also accept any form of journalism from the students here at CNC. Overall, we at the Confluence want to develop the magazine into a reliable source of information for everyone at CNC to read.
