

It was a crazy feeling, walking back into the college for the 2018 Fall semester. To all the students who are coming into CNC for their first year, welcome! It's great to have you here and I would love to meet you. For the people returning for their second, third, fourth, or eleventh year, welcome back. It's good to see your face around here again. As for who I am, I am the editor-in-chief of the Confluence and a student in the Web and Graphic Design program. My first issue was the April/May 2018 issue which to may or may not have read from earlier in the year. If you did, then we are already best friends. If not, well, we can still be friendly acquaintances.

As for this coming school year, I am excited to say that the Confluence is going to be a bi-weekly issue that will come out every two weeks of every month. Each issue will be taking submissions from the students here at the College of New Caledonia and articles written by the Confluence staff.

So here's my pitch. I need your submissions. I need all of your submissions. The Confluence relies on the works of the students here at CNC. Being honest, there are a lot of works made here at the college that deserve the recognition. For submitting you will get a $20 cheque, the ability to say you're a published writer, artist, or photographer on your resumes, and recognition for your work! Here's a list for what content I am looking for:

Photographs
Artwork
Poetry
Journalistic Articles
Short Essays
Questions
Life Stories
and more

All submissions can be sent to editor@cncsu.ca, and I will get back to you if your stuff makes it into the issue. If you have any complaints, comments, praise, or want to say hello, make sure to swing by the Students Union or send it to the editor email as well!

Cheers,
Damon Robinson
Editor-In-Chief of the Confluence
