

IT'S THE CHIEF - EDITORIAL

Hello everyone!

Welcome back to the college for another great year! This is always an exciting time of year and I want to welcome back all the returning students along with the new ones as well.

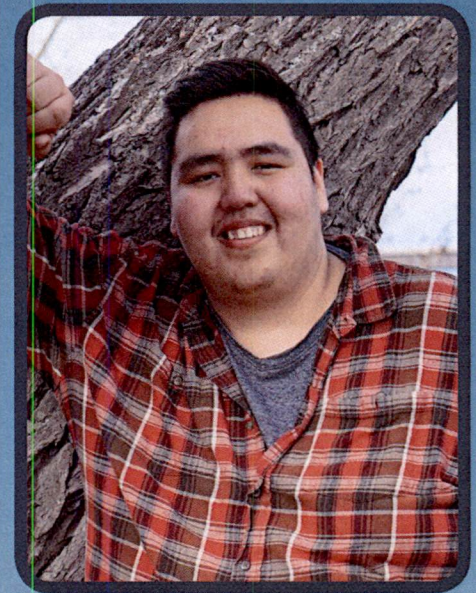

The Confluence webpage is up and running, and can be found at "www.cnscsu.ca/confluence". All of our submissions that are published will be published there as well. We hope that this will make it easier for students to share and access their written works. The overall goal of the Confluence was to spread your voice as far as possible, so this project has been very exciting for me.

I am also pleased to announce that The Confluence will officially be handing out three $200 bursaries to students who have their submissions published in the magazine or the website. The criteria for the bursaries are this:

- How actively involved you are with The Confluence
- The quality of your work published in The Confluence

On another note, we are actively recruiting volunteers, and this is especially true for The Confluence. People who work with video and photography are especially needed in what we are hoping to accomplish.

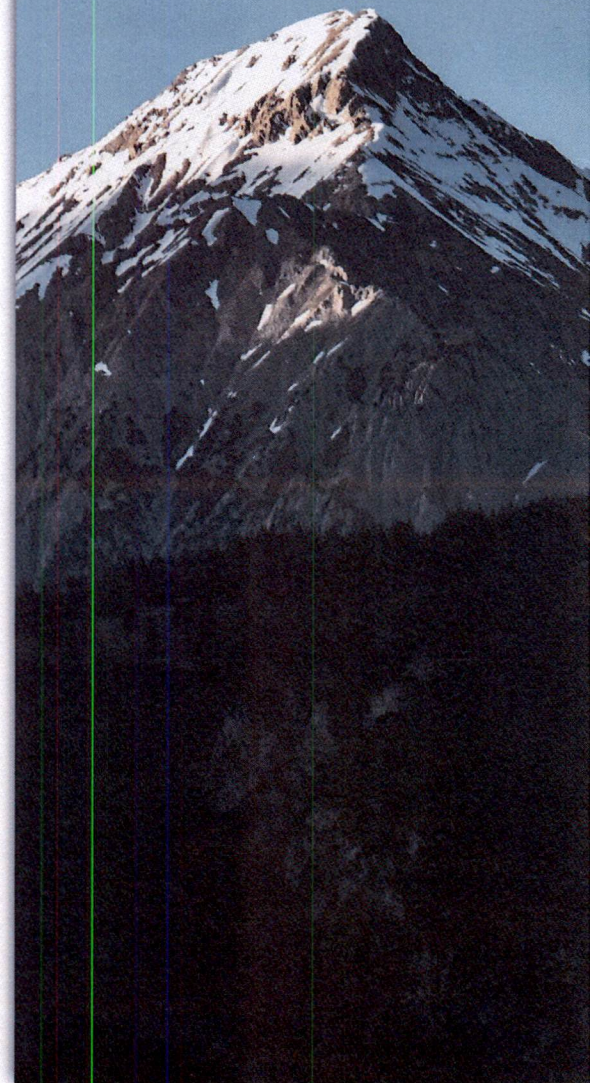

I hope you all are excited for the upcoming semester and I truly urge you to submit anything you got to the magazine. There is plenty of money on the table for you all to get!

Cheers!

Damon Robinson

Editor-in-Chief, The Confluence

Submit your works today! You can send what you have to editor@cnscsu.ca.

Upon publication, you will receive a $20 cheque and be automatically entered to potentially receive a $200 bursary in Spring 2020.
